

McWane Science Center Copyright Statement

All images © 2015 McWane Science Center. All rights reserved.

This copyright statement applies to all photographs and content found in the Alabama Biodiversity Database. Please read carefully.

The photographs contained in the Alabama Biodiversity Database are property of McWane Science Center and are protected by United States and International copyright laws. No part may be reproduced, in whole or in part, without permission of McWane Science Center.

Students are welcome to download images and use them in school reports, presentations, etc. for free provided that proper credit and citation is given to McWane Science Center and no images are modified.

Persons who wish to use the images on this site in a commercial fashion or in a scientific publication must receive written consent from McWane Science Center prior to its use. To obtain consent, interested parties must e-mail jebersole@mcwane.org. Any commercial use of the photography and content in the database without prior consent of the McWane Science Center is a violation of the United States and International copyright laws.